CESSMA (Center for Social Sciences Studies in Africa, the Americas, and Asia),
IRD (French National Research Institute for Development)-University of Paris 7-INALCO
(French National Institute for Oriental Languages and Cultures), Paris

evelyne.micollier@ird.fr

Dr Evelyne Micollier is a tenured research scholar at IRD (French National Research Institute for Development) working within the Research Center (CESSMA-Center for Social Sciences Studies in Africa, the Americas, and Asia), IRD-University of Paris 7-INALCO (French National Institute for Oriental Languages and Cultures), and an associate research scholar at IrASIA (Research Institute for Asian Studies, representative member for China), CNRS (French National Center for Scientific Research)-Aix-Marseilles University. She specialized in Social Anthropology and in Asian Studies (with a focus on Chinese Studies). She conducted anthropological field studies mainly in East Asia (P.R.China, Taiwan) and in comparative perspective in Southeast Asia (Greater Mekong Sub-Region GMS, recently in Lao PDR, casually in Vietnam, Thailand). E.Micollier draws on comparative perspectives on health, social and gender issues; the anthropology of science/knowledge (including the anthropology of the body and the anthropology of pharmaceuticals) is a key field in her long-term research; in regard to the conceptual and methodological framework, she works at the interface of social anthropology, Asian studies (with a focus on Chinese studies), and social sciences of health.

She developed a strong expertise in 1) Gender&sexuality, corporal practice (qigong 气功 practices) and health, 2) Research ethics, (bio)ethics, ethno-ethics and governance issues, and 3) production, co-construction, and dissemination of knowledge with a focus on therapeutic knowledge (case-studies: integrative medicine; Chinese medicine; pharmaceutical innovation, local/lay/scientific knowledge, local epistemologies) in times of globalization. She is the author of a number of publications on these fields and thematic lines. In her last long-term research in China, Beijing (2006-2011), Dr Micollier has been the scientific manager of an international program in social sciences focusing on key cultural and social aspects of chronic/epidemic/STI (HIV and AIDS) such as gendered vulnerability, local governance&social organizations patterns confronted with global patterns and regulations; medical research and R&D (pharmaceuticals), research ethics and production/uses of scientific/local scholarly and lay knowledge. Her academic partners were the PUMC/CAMS (Peking Union Medical College/Chinese Academy of Medical Sciences) 协和医科大学&中国医科学院, Department of Public Health and Department of Humanities&Social Sciences, Center for Bioethics, Qinghua University 清华大学, and the Beijing Peoples' University of China 北京人民大学, Department of Sociology.

She has been an investigator in a Canadian-Chinese research project 'Living in Transnational Spaces' of Chinese (im)migrants in Canada living 'in-between' Canada and China (2011-2015) exploring the intersections of transnationalism, sexualities, intimate relations and health risks.

Stationed in Vientiane (2013-2017), she has worked on a project in Southeast Asia about mother and child health and the prevention of HIV transmission in Lao PDR including lines on body&self perception/conception, uses and circulations of medicines, gendered social vulnerability and HIV governance issues.
